Multiple Dimensions of Housing Recovery

Edited by Alka Sapat, Florida Atlantic University, USA and Ann-Margaret Esnard, Georgia State University, USA

This book serves as a valuable resource by highlighting the key issues and challenges that need to be addressed with regard to post-disaster housing. It features a collection of case studies of housing issues from various disasters that have occurred globally. Bringing together the expertise of a range of scholars working in this field, this book highlights the rich diversity of approaches taken to solve post-disaster housing problems.

Excerpts from the Foreword by Dennis Wenger

The authors of these 19 chapters are some of the finest scholars and researchers focusing upon housing recovery in the world… The book is multinational and multicultural in its analysis. It deals with housing policies and processes at local, regional, and national levels. It is also comparative in its considerations of a variety of natural hazard situations. A variety of diverse and critically important topics are discussed….

The reader is given a detailed tour of the intricacies and complexities of housing recovery both in the United States and throughout the world.
